

Workshop Abstract

Session: From Doer to Leader

The skills that make someone a top performer do not always translate into making that same person a great leader. They are use to “doing” to get results vs. inspiring people to get results. This often can lead to a level of performance that both the corporation and the top performer find unsatisfying. At the very least, it results in results that are less than the potential!

Our Workshop

In this interactive session participants will:

- ✓ Learn the difference between being a great doer and a great leader
- ✓ Discover their specific blocks to making this transition
- ✓ Gain insight into specific delegation strategies
- ✓ Discover why others aren't like them and how that expectation actually inhibits their performance
- ✓ Practice a conversation model for coaching others
- ✓ Discover strategies for mentoring others to the next level
- ✓ Build an action plan to take their leadership to its' potential

All participants will leave prepared to inspire, grow and mentor others.
